The school was the beginning of the end, the old Foreman's Hall, the beginning of Terrebonne High School. Fifty years ago, in 1909, it was a combined elementary high school from which was graduated one student, Miss Jeanne Klappman. In 1909 a new building was erected under the supervision of Superintendent John M. Fourn.

"On July 7, 1908, bids were invited for the new building. A contract was subsequently awarded," said our late Superintendent H. L. Beaupre, "and when the building was completed, it was officially named the Terrebonne High School." This is at present the Houma Elementary School. From it in 1909 were graduated four students. In 1918, Terrebonne High School, presently the Houma Elementary School, rose upon the square where the Foreman's Hall had been. The present imposing structure on Highway 24, Terrebonne High School, was completed in 1944.

Yesterday . . .

An interesting feature of our school system is its high degree of centralization. This has brought to all students in the parish the many advantages of a large school and to the community an economical government in education. "It has made for a sense of solidarity in the people of the parish," said Mr. Beaupre, "and has converted Terrebonne Parish into one Community."

Centralization depends on transportation. In 1909 and for years after, some pupils in the parish had to be transported by boat because Terrebonne is delta country.

The first consolidations in the parish occurred in 1910-1911. The idea of taking to school appealed to children and parents alike. In that year four transfers were placed in operation and an era of consolidation began. Today, in 1958, thirty-two transfers transport approximately 1,000 children to and from school each day.

Today, in 1958, 328 students are being graduated from Terrisborne High School. The imposing thirty-four classroom building completed in 1940 stands on a campus graced with live oaks, magnolias, shrubs, and candelabras. It is dignified in appearance, architecturally attractive, and designed to meet the needs of modern education.

Today . . .

Thirteen hundred students are being trained at T. H. S. in academic, commercial, and vocational subjects, in music, and in athletics. Terrisborne High School has a faculty of forty-seven instructors, a guidance counselor, and two principals. Students participate in many extra-curricular activities and share in the privileges and responsibilities of good citizens in a junior democracy. Thus have fifty years of education in Terrisborne helped build our community.

Tomorrow<sup>1</sup> if we can interpret modern trends, education to-morrow will place emphasis on math and science. It will also provide many more challenging opportunities for the gifted student, so that he may do advanced study in special fields. Perhaps even classroom instruction will be changed. Though the human element will never be lost, some courses may be taught through television. Here at Tennebesser advanced classes in physics and math are being taught, advanced classes in English are being planned for next year.

Tomorrow . . .

Certainly progress will be the keynote in tomorrow's education. It must answer for us many questions. Will T. E. S. look the same fifty years from now? Will a rocket reach the moon? Will people go to live on other planets? Will tomorrow bring peace to the world? To-morrow? Tomorrow? Only tomorrow will we know.

MR. JAMES D. ROGERS
Principal

The Principal

To the Seniors from the Principal:

You are graduating into a world of strife and turmoil. Your country has been challenged. Will we be able to preserve the Democracy which we have toiled so hard to preserve? Will we be able to meet this threat to our way of life? These are some of the many questions which will face you in your span of life.

What new Frontiers lie ahead? Abundance is here for the taking. Don't forsake your last Frontier. It is even now flashing on your horizon. A gorgeous land lies before you, far and more beautiful than man has ever known. Out of the laboratory will come new processes to multiply, almost infinitely, material things for your America; only if you will hold open the channels of free science, unfettered thought, and the right of man to use his talents to the utmost, will this frontier be worth the undertaking.

When you leave this campus may you resolve to pay your debt to your parents, teachers, and your community by assuming the full responsibilities of citizenship in this great nation of ours.

That you will meet this challenge and that you will unfold this new horizon is our wholehearted wish.
